Box No. IV Text of the abstract (Continuation of item 5 of the first sheet)

It is a type of fracture-proof flat clasping floorboard strips. Along both the long and the short sides of such strip (1), there is slot mortise (11) on one side and tenon (12) on the other side. The upper surface of the slot mortise (11) is parallel to and has the same height with the upper surface of the tenon (12). In the lower surface of the slot mortise there is a V-shaped groove (115) while a convexity (123) is arranged on the lower surface of the tenon. The front end of the convexity (123) together with the external surface of the slot mortise (11) forms an anti-self-locking oblique plane, which forms Angle α with the upper surface of the strip. The rear end of the convexity (123) fits perfectly with the external side surface of the V-shaped groove (115) and forms a self-locking plane, which forms Angle β with the upper surface of the strip. These strips can be assembled into the fracture-proof flat clasping flooring with the tenon (12) in one strip inserted into the slot mortise (11) in another.
